Newsletter 1 27 December 2024

Merry Christmas! I hope you all had a wonderful Christmas with your family and friends. It was a pity it was so overcast, but lots of families had chosen their Christmas get together to be at Bull Creek and they continued to have lots of fun despite the weather!

It will be busy with cruise ships during the holidays. Keep an eye out for them. Even if it is 3am!

"The Ovation of the seas" crept past on Christmas Eve -we could only just see the enormous outline in the fog.

Bush Track

As many of you know- the Bull Creek bush track suffered huge damage during the storm in early October. The majority of the bridges were destroyed. We are trying to clear the track from the debris that has been left behind. Below is some history of the how the bush track came to be. Since it had become so accessible with its 10 bridges, it had become a very popular track with crib owners and visitors. It was devastating to see the results of the storm.

The beach below the bathing sheds- had several bridges and the picnic table from the waterfall piled up on it. The tree bridge is still intact but has trees, bridges etc on top of it

Extracts from the Bull Creek Book 2000.

“...Another asset that has occurred during this time. is the formed track up through the Bush, following the creek. This amazing feat has made the bush accessible to many people who could not previously enjoy it. Ally Campbell. Brian Roughan and Robin Gamble deserve huge congratulations for the enormous amount of work they put into this track to provide it for the pleasure of others. Many others have also helped on this project. It was disappointing In 1998 to have the track closed because of new specifications for bridges but we look forward to working with the Otago Regional Council in 2000 as they have selected this track as one of their Millennium projects.

The BUSH TRACK

Early 1993 Robin. Ally and Brian recognized there was a lot of history up the creek and so decided to improve the access, as at that stage it required many creek crossings and it was decided to put in some bridges.

A variety of bridges were built and put in place and even a fallen trees was altered to become a bridge. Gabion Baskets were used as supports and also in places of difficult access. The track was worked on and improved by a band of cribowners through until 1998 when it was upgraded by the ORC. The bush reserve is now a partnership form Project Crimson, the local cribowners, Department of Conservation and Otago Regional Council.

(Project Crimson awarded us two grants to enhance the Rata in the reserve- to make possible possum control and planting of young plants, after recognizing the significance of the rata remnants at Bull Creek.)”

Bull Creek Moanariri Newsletter

No. 2 28 December 2024

This year is one of the best displays of Rata that there has been for many years. It so lovely to see it flowering so brightly.

THANK YOU!

- For the lawn mower work that has been done recently -keeping down the huge amount of grass growth.
- The team that has worked hard to get the repairs done to the marquee after the damage it suffered in a storm last xmas.
- To those who erected the marquee this morning
- Those who organized for the new playground equipment
- The team who volunteered to work 19 Oct to collect the huge amount of bridge/ track debris off the beach.

Keep dogs on lead

This is a large fishing spider found under a rock up the Bull Creek track. It was identified using the "app" below.

Dolomedes dondalei is a species of large fishing spider endemic to the main islands of New Zealand. It is a nocturnal hunter, feeling the water surface for vibrations, and catches insects and even small fishes – the only New Zealand Dolomedes species able to do so.
